

We create an open streaming network, based on our blockchain protocol to share everyday experiences for a straight value.

Lack of direct and immediate knowledge about how the place of your destination looks like. Present services with the amount of data is not easy to look through or read.

Our vision was to create the marketplace where users will directly receive the stream from the place they currently want to see, visit, find out what they look like at the moment or get advice here and now with direct access to the person who creates the content.
